Home Energy Scotland

Home Energy Scotland is Scotland's free energy advice service, funded by the Scottish Government. It has a network of advisors across Scotland, offering advice and support to reduce your energy bills, make your home warmer, and cut your carbon footprint. All advice is free, expert and impartial.

If you're thinking about installing a heat pump at home, visit Home Energy Scotland's heat pump webpages for info on how they work, common myths and misconceptions, grants and funding to help you cover the costs of installing, including the Home Energy Scotland Grant and Loan, the installation process and making the most of your new heat pump. It also has a range of free online tools to help you find out more about your options, identify an installer, and research available funding to help cover the cost of installation.

Warmworks

0800 011 6189

Warmworks' Warmer Homes Scotland scheme has helped nearly 45,000 homes across the country be warmer, more comfortable, and save against their energy costs. The scheme provides grants for insulation, efficient heating and renewable technologies in the homes of households who are struggling with the cost of high energy bills, making homes more affordable to heat.

You can apply to the scheme via Home Energy Scotland's website. Once they receive your referral, Warmworks manages the whole process, from carrying out an assessment of your home to see what measures it could benefit from, to appointing a local registered and accredited installer who will fit the agreed improvements, through to a final independent inspection that makes sure all the work meets their high quality and safety standards. Find out more at warmworks.co.uk.
